

Survey About Perceptions of Portland Police Bureau's Community Engagement

The Independent Court-Appointed Monitor is responsible for assessing the City of Portland's compliance with, and implementation of, requirements laid out in a Settlement Agreement on policing between the City and the United States of America. One of our duties is to measure whether the Settlement Agreement has created robust systems of community engagement between the public, the City, and the Portland Police Bureau (PPB). In order to conduct this measurement in an informed way, it is critical that we hear perspectives from a broad cross-section of Portland's diverse community. We therefore respectfully ask for your assistance by linking to the survey HERE and responding to the survey questions.
